TO THE COLLECTORS

This marks our first sale in our new headquarters. May we extend an invitation to you to visit our new offices and library.

You will note that we have resumed one of our old customs of placing the estimated present day values on the coins that will be offered in this sale. We would suggest that you adhere to this guide as much as possible because our staff is somewhat depleted — some having joined the armed forces — and any bookkeeping that could be eliminated would be appreciated.

In other words, bid liberally for several reasons. First the scarcity of coins. Secondly it will enable you to obtain items. For example if you bid less than $2.50 on a gold dollar or less than $7.00 for a $3.00 gold piece it will be pretty hard for you to obtain these items.

Past records and present day indications of the market prompts us to offer the above suggestion.
